

claims, and the complexity of the legal arguments. Id. (citing Edgington v. Missouri Dep't of Corr., 85 F.3d 777, 780 (8th Cir. 1995)).

The Court has determined that Plaintiff's suit is primarily a fact-intensive inquiry based on well-settled law. Plaintiff has demonstrated he is capable of adequately presenting the relevant facts, and therefore appointment of counsel is not necessary. While the Court remains sympathetic to the difficulties of presenting a civil suit while in prison during a global pandemic, it concludes that Plaintiff is sufficiently capable of presenting his claims and reiterates that, should the unusual circumstances necessitate additional time to prepare or respond to discovery requests or briefing, the Court will liberally consider such requests at that time.

Accordingly,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Plaintiff David James Brodigan's Sixth Motion for Appointment of Counsel (Doc. 128) is DENIED.

Dated this 25th day of August, 2020.
